How to Use This Workbook

I suggest printing out the next two pages and making a copy for every month.

I fill out the sheet at the beginning of the month, update it as the month goes on, and review it at the end of the month.

I then put it in a binder with all the previous months and start a new sheet.

With blogging, you will have difficult moments where you may not be overly motivated or start comparing yourself to others.

When this happens, go look back at your old sheets. I promise it will motivate you to see how much you have learned, grown and accomplished.
